

MEVISTO

GEMSTONES MADE FROM HAIR OR ASHES

From life
to eternity.

“What if the soul lacks the right words to say? Then it will send tears... But, sometimes there are not even tears anymore. Sometimes emptiness is all that is left. In these moments, I just sat there and held my gem in my hands to hold myself up. Thank you for this token of remembrance and love to which I can cling.”

– Customer testimonial about our Memento Ring Art.Nr. 360

“For us, sapphires made of ashes or hair are a sign of appreciation, respect, and love and a unique memory of someone for whom our love knows no bounds.”

– Customer testimonial about the Memento Ring Art. No. 320

“Since I have been wearing this ring, this emptiness in me is slowly being replaced with joy in life again. The gemstone gives me an indescribable connection with the beloved person, who had to depart from us much too early. I am exceedingly grateful for the wonderful people at Mevisto who made all this possible in the first place and managed to implement my ideas. I cannot find the words to describe how much this means to me. Thank you!”

– Daniel on our Memento Ring Art. No. 120

Special moments are worth preserving.

“Because love outlives death.”

A devastating loss in our family sparked the desire to create a lasting, tangible way to hold on to the people we love. A keepsake that makes this life-changing experience meaningful — and one you can carry close to your heart. This search for a beautiful and personal remembrance led to the development of a truly unique method: the transformation of hair or ashes into personalized sapphires or rubies.

A photograph captures a moment that takes you back to the same situation, the same event. A gemstone evokes memories and makes it possible to move on and grow in your life.

The mission of our family business is to give people the opportunity to remain close to their loved ones — as a symbol of fellowship throughout a shared lifetime or in memory of the departed.

How the process works.

"Because this is our calling."

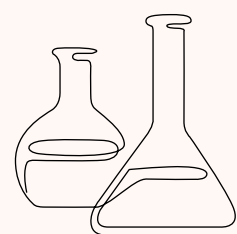

Ashes/hair

Only 50 g of ashes or 10 g of hair are needed to create a gemstone that preserves your memories forever.

We can also honour special wishes — for example by combining the ashes or hair of more than one loved being in a single gem.

Mevisto gemstones are crafted in a generous size, allowing the memory they hold to feel present and tangible.

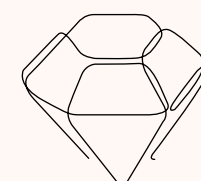

Extraction

Through a chemical process, we isolate the personal elements found in the ashes or hair of your loved one. These elements are carefully prepared so they can become part of the crystal structure of the gemstone.

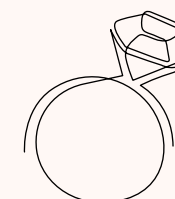

Genesis

At temperatures above 2,300 °C, aluminium oxide fuses with the personal elements to form a sapphire or ruby. By carefully monitoring every stage of the process, we create a gemstone that will shine at its very best for generations to come.

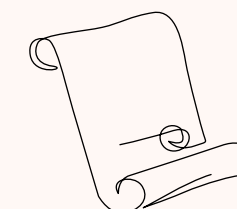

The gemstone

The newborn crystal is cut according to the highest quality standards. Each facet is refined at least four times — from the initial rough cut to the final polish. Our gemstone cutters make more than 700 careful inspections until every facet interacts in perfect harmony. It is their patience, precision, and extraordinary skill that transform each piece into a one-of-a-kind gemstone.

Jewelry

If desired, the polished gemstone can be set into a piece of jewellery. Whether it is worn close to the heart as a pendant or carried as a ring is entirely up to personal preference.

Certificate

Each gemstone is accompanied by a certificate that documents all of its defining characteristics. What makes these personalized gemstones truly unique is that the individual trace elements from the ashes or hair can be scientifically verified — a fact confirmed by several universities, worldwide unique.

The color variety and characters of the gemstones.

"Because no one of us is like another."

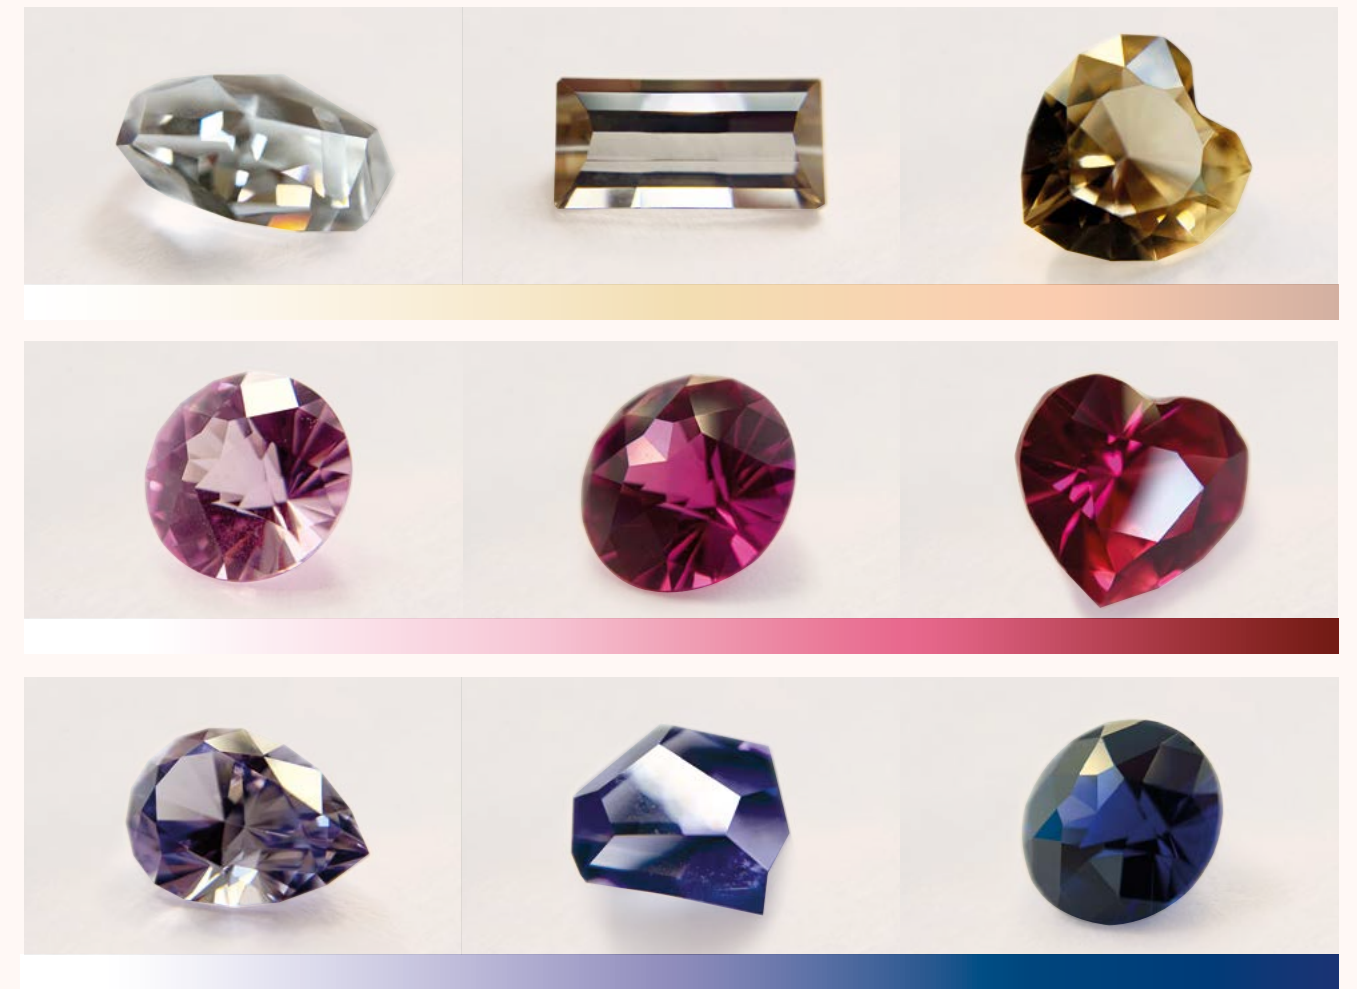

Each gemstone carries its own character. Although we are all made of the same elements, their individual composition varies — shaped by our lives, our stories, and countless personal influences. These nuances affect the intensity of the colours and the natural inclusions within every sapphire or ruby. A true symphony of elements, playing a unique melody in each stone.

Customers can choose between red, blue, or natural tones for their personalized gemstone. The exact shade, however — whether lighter or deeper — is part of the gem's individuality and cannot be precisely predicted.

Natural: from colorless, champagne, and peach to brownish

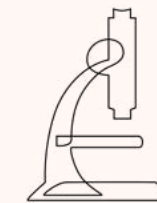

Red: from colorless, pink, and light red/orange to dark red

Blue: from colorless, lilac, and light blue to dark blue/purple

Delivery time

Our gemstones are crafted within 30 working days, and jewellery pieces within 50. Each step of the process is carried out with meticulous craftsmanship and the highest standards. During periods of increased demand, delivery times may extend slightly.

Science

We do not offer personalized diamonds, as their individualisation cannot be verified with scientific certainty. The personalization of Me-visto sapphires and rubies, is both visually perceptible and scientifically measurable. A distinction confirmed by multiple universities.

Quality

Every gemstone undergoes rigorous quality control. We pursue exceptional cutting precision and place the highest value on process reliability.

It is also possible to create multiple gemstones.

Memories are rarely held by just one person — they are shared, lived and cherished by many. That is why we also offer the option to craft more than one personalised gemstone.

It is generally possible to create combinations of different colours and cuts. When several gemstones of the same colour are requested, we are able to offer a discount on the total price of the gemstones. Although discounts apply to the gemstone only, customers are free to choose any jewellery setting to accompany it. The jewellery prices listed in this catalogue include both the gemstone and the gold setting.

The online shop of our website features a configurator that helps with calculating the prices. This offer is valid for the year 2026.

The aggregate of these sapphires constitutes the entirety of the elements. You can see that together they depict a fascinating color gradient.

The tale of Simone and Alexander.

"Because I miss your laugh."

"The very last moment we were blessed to share... Alexander said to me last night, 'Mom, you are so beautiful.' I answered, 'But Alexander, I'm already in my pyjamas and without make-up...' And he replied, 'But mom, that doesn't matter — you're so beautiful.' Those were almost the last words we exchanged."

"What helps me most, and what feels healing, is reminding myself again and again of the deep connection we shared — and will continue to share forever. Our love will never be lost. Knowing that we remain connected in this love carries me through the days when everything feels heavy."

Simone's heartfelt mission is to lift grief and death out of the taboo zone, and to lovingly accompany bereaved families through the hardest moments of their lives — with her words, her thoughts and her active support.

A sapphire with the Forget-me-not cut set in the pendant Art. No. 531 gives Simone the feeling that a little piece of Alexander is with her at all times.

"You are allowed to be sad. You are even allowed to still be sad after 10 years, as that is now a part of you. But, I also want to demonstrate that there is a lot of wonderful life yet to live. Everybody can get there."

"To me, it is a miracle that my rainbow baby greets each new day. I am filled with joy whenever he opens his eyes and smiles at me. For others this may seem ordinary — but for me, that alone makes the day beautiful."

On the top, the cut is plain, with only a panel allowing you to see inside the sapphire or ruby. What cut could there be that fits our loved ones better? On the back, the interplay of the polished and unpolished surfaces creates the image of a flower. While making the flower less easily visible, a dark gemstone will reveal surprises when struck by the right light.

The wedding of Bernhard and Katharina.

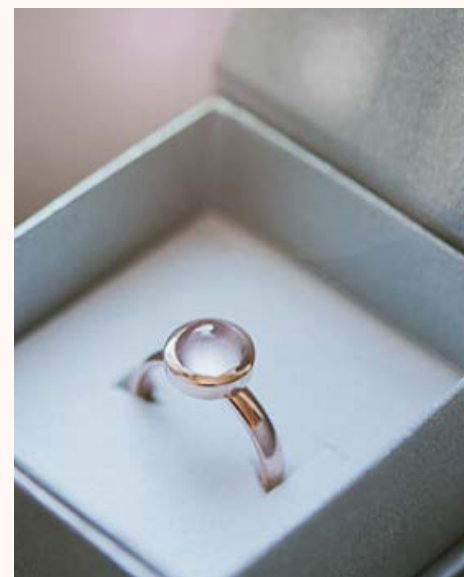

Meanwhile, the family ring has come to adorn Katharina's hand instead of her wedding ring.

Because joy is more than a moment in time.

"... and I said yes!"

This cabochon sapphire, called Pure Round, fits perfectly into this redgold setting. While designed as a wedding ring for everyday life, it is anything but ordinary.

"On the morning of our wedding, my husband gave me a very special gift. One that I would never have expected. A sapphire crafted from strands of our hair and that of our children. I find that this gorgeous ring symbolizes our love, our connection, and our trust for each other. When times are tough, it reminds me of the beautiful moments we have shared. It allows me to unite with all my loved ones and keep them with me at all times. For me, this ring is the most beautiful gift I have ever received. And, one day, I will pass it on to my daughter."

The art of gem cutting calls for immense patience and precision. For us, it is never just a gemstone — we know that for someone, it holds a world of meaning.

Information about Mevisto's jewelry.

Each piece of jewellery is available in every colour combination. We work exclusively with 14-karat white, yellow and rose gold to achieve the ideal balance of durability and quality. Skin tone can play an important role when choosing the gold colour: rose and white gold tend to suit slightly pinkish skin tones, while white and yellow gold complement olive or warmer skin tones beautifully.

The table on the right offers an overview of ring sizes. If a ring is chosen, please make sure to specify the size when placing your order.

We work with a select group of goldsmiths from our region. Local sourcing and sustainability are close to our hearts and are the defining mark of our manufactory.

My child,
my wingman,
my partner.

"For my soul dog."

"At the time, I asked myself whether I needed a place or an object to mourn him. Eventually, I realised that I wanted to have a piece of jewellery made from Kurti's ashes. A Google search led me to Mevisto — and from the very first phone call, I felt in good hands. What touched me most was their openness: they told me I could visit anytime. And when I drove 800 kilometres, only to arrive on a public holiday, they still opened the door for me. One month later, I picked up the gem. When it isn't with me, something feels missing. I haven't taken it off since.", says Pascal L.

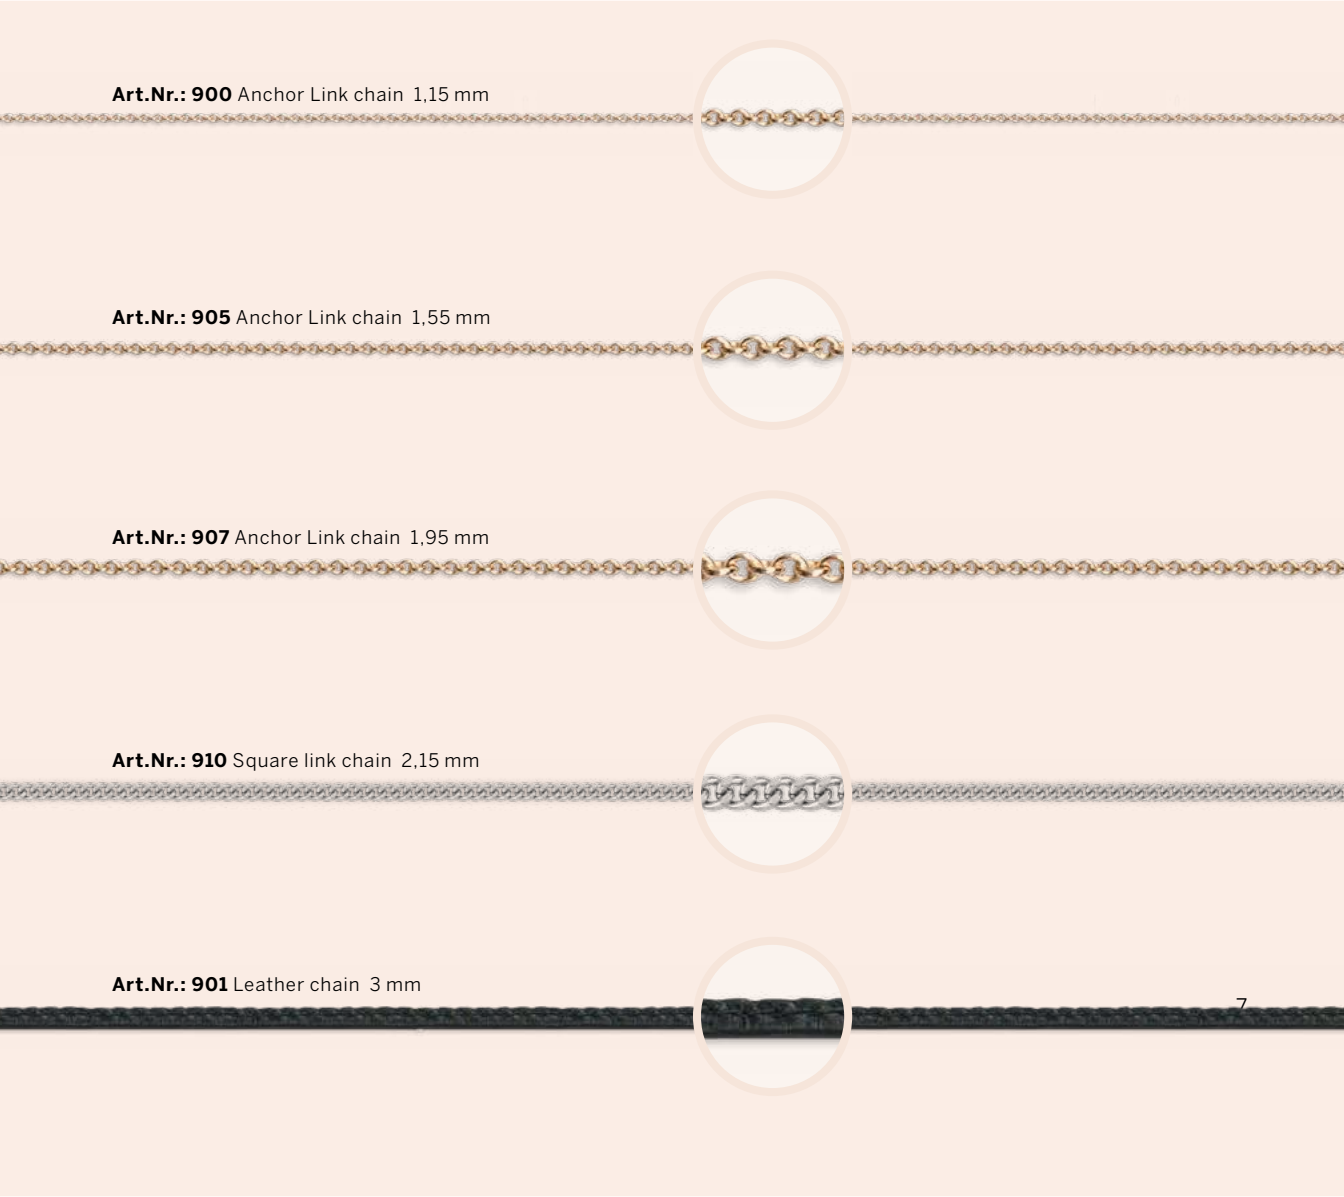

Kurti was at Pascal's side for sixteen years. A soul dog whose loss has touched many people.

"Kurti gave me everything you would expect from a good partnership. Some people find it difficult to understand that you can feel such deep-seated sadness for a dog. For me, it was the worst thing that has happened to me in my 40 years."

Kurti's ashes have been transformed into two sapphires. A blue Wild Beauty, the model 401, hangs very close to Pascal's heart. A blue sapphire, given the Royal Crest cut, was incorporated into an elaborate ring.

The chains

The chains are available in every gold color. Please indicate the gold color when placing your order.
A great fit for gemstones up to 4 carat would be, for example, an anchor chain article no. 900. For larger gemstones, we recommend a stronger chain.

A funeral package, at the Gem of Eternity.

This one-of-a-kind place at the cemetery in St. Martin, Linz, bears the name “Stone of Eternity” and offers a dignified final resting place in an area spanning roughly 2000 m2.

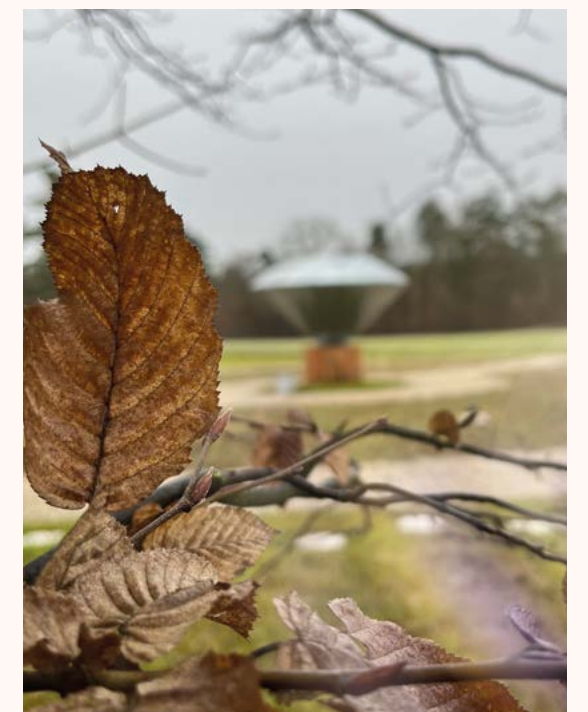

Upon request, ashes not used for the manufacturing of gemstones (left-over ashes) can be interred in one of the urn graves. As a Mevisto customer, this service is available to you free of charge for 10 years. Thanks to our collaboration with Linz AG, our vision of a gemstone funeral has now become reality. At the heart of a meadow in full bloom — surrounded by gentle, industrious bees — a gemstone sculpture symbolizes the eternal cycle of life. Bright wildflowers embrace the urn graves arranged around them, which can also be reserved as family resting places.

This beautiful cemetery is open for visits at any time.

If desired, your funeral director can arrange a farewell on-site in coordination with Linz AG.

Aside from offering the deceased a final resting place, this wonderful and lavish place also provides a habitat for flora and fauna.

Every time you visit the cemetery in St. Martin, you will be able to see glorious, and almost trusting, wildlife.

Whether you are afraid of loss or entertain the idea of having a gemstone made afterwards ... our safekeeping option has you covered.

Safekeeping of the extracted elements.

If requested, we will extract and store additional elements free of charge. This allows us to manufacture additional gemstones at a later time. The elements extracted from the ashes are stored under special conditions and can be kept in this way for up to five years. The secured elements can be used at any time for the production of a new, personalized gemstone. Since the extracted elements remain a company secret, the elements are not handed over. We cannot guarantee that other gemstones will receive the same shade of color.

Pre-arrangements and Financing

Coming to terms with saying goodbye early on is not always easy – yet this step can be a loving relief for family members.

Making early funeral arrangements relieves loved ones of many decisions in the event of a death. It creates space for mourning rather than organizational burdens. Personal wishes – such as the type of burial or the creation of a gemstone from hair or ashes – can be documented in a written declaration of intent. Mevisto provides a corresponding document, which should be kept together with important papers such as the registration form or birth certificate. A common misconception is to record one's final wishes in a will. Unfortunately, this is only opened after the funeral.

Since Mevisto cannot offer financial planning services, we recommend arranging comprehensive funeral preplanning with a trusted funeral director. This is the only way to ensure that all wishes are fulfilled according to the deceased's intentions.

If you have any questions about the declaration of intent or coordination with funeral homes, our team is here to support you. Please note that we are currently unable to offer financing options such as instalment payments. We therefore kindly ask that you coordinate financial matters with your bank advisor.
